Supporting Local Governments In Their Clean Energy Future

The Local Government Sustainable Energy Coalition (LGSEC) is a statewide membership network representing local government interests to state agencies. Together, LGSEC members advance sustainable energy and climate solutions to meet California's climate and energy goals.

Local Energy Leadership

Local governments are essential to meeting California's climate and energy mandates. Local governments have an interest in reducing energy costs for their residents and their own operations. Many local governments have committed to advancing energy resilience through innovative programs or technologies. LGSEC members work together to empower local governments to advance climate and energy action through policy, peer-networking, and resource development. Whether an organization's goals are to reduce costs, or to provide innovative programs to meet energy, economic or environmental goals, LGSEC can support the vision.

The Need For Regulatory Engagement on Energy and Climate

Since its inception in 2007, LGSEC has represented the interests of local governments before the California Public Utilities Commission (CPUC), the California Energy Commission (CEC), California Independent Service Operator (CAISO), California Air Resources Board (ARB), and the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC).

LGSEC's collective voice has been instrumental in delivering sustainable energy solutions, including: Local Government Partnerships, Regional Energy Networks, and Community Choice Aggregations, and Property Assessed Clean Energy.
Our purpose is to advance sustainable energy and climate solutions for California's local governments through knowledge exchange, targeted learning opportunities, and statewide collaboration. We provide a forum for local, regional, and statewide engagement for leaders from government, business, nonprofit, community aggregators, and academia.

LGSEC brings stakeholders together across utility and jurisdictional boundaries to share information and best practices, leverage resources, identify critical needs and strategies, and inform state policy. Because local governments play a critical role in implementing California's energy and climate policy, LGSEC ensures local governments have a unified voice at key state agencies and regulatory bodies.

Share technical expertise and best practices

Provide members frequent regulatory updates through webinars, calls and newsletters

Convene forums for networking and education

Provide an online resource for members to share information resources

Our Network of Leaders